Healthcare is perhaps the most challenging and sensitive market segment in the construction industry. It demands an understanding of mechanical infrastructure and structural needs to support equipment that is both substantial and delicate. We are sensitive to the importance of isolating the work space and all debris from patient space as well as guaranteeing the quality of our installation materials in order to maintain a safe, sterile environment.

NATIONAL INTREPID CENTER OF EXCELLENCE (NICOE)

Bethesda, Maryland

In early 2008, the Intrepid Fallen Heroes Fund was approached by the U.S. military to reprise their donation of the Center for the Intrepid in San Antonio, Texas with a new project dedicated to the study of Traumatic Brain Injury and Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder. The goal for the project was to design the world's preeminent brain trauma center. Plaza was responsible for managing every detail from early development through move-in. NICOE was awarded LEED Silver.

NASSAU UNIVERSITY MEDICAL CENTER

East Meadow, New York

When it sought to expand and enhance its Emergency Department, Nassau University Medical Center, part of the NuHealth System, retained Plaza to provide general construction services. Upgrading this critical area, which had not undergone a major renovation since 1974, dramatically enhances the hospital's ability to deliver first-rate emergency care for years to come.

NEW YORK BLOOD CENTER

Long Island City, New York

Occupying a space that was previously used as a distribution warehouse, the converted New York Blood Center now handles all critical blood processing, storage and distribution operations for the New York City region, providing lifesaving blood products as well as clinical and transfusion services to nearly 200 hospitals throughout New York and New Jersey. The shell of a former warehouse space was transformed by Plaza Construction.
